

Electronic

Timely

Highly personalized

email

response site

phone

fax

Electronic communication lets you reach your customers when and how they prefer, opening the door for interactive response.

We facilitate network communications via phone, fax and email and are able to receive feedback interactively via phone voice or digital, or email on a response site that is posted back to your interactive customer database, whether it resides on your server or ours.

Access has the hardware, software and technical expertise to execute your electronic communication flow, whether it is scheduled or on-demand outgoing communications only, or generating and capturing an interactive response.